The Allure of Nigeria's Historical Sites

Nigeria is a country rooted in history, and its historical sites bear witness to the country's rich past. Delve into the depths of history and explore the wonders of Nigeria's ancient civilizations.

The UNESCO World Heritage Site, Sukur Cultural Landscape, is an architectural marvel and a testament to Nigeria's rich cultural heritage. The terraced fields, stone-walled compounds, and the sacred Hidi Palace make Sukur a must-visit destination for history enthusiasts.

Another iconic historical site is the ancient city of Benin, formerly the capital of the Benin Kingdom. The ancient walls of Benin, built over 600 years ago, are the longest ancient earthworks in the world and a symbol of the kingdom's power and influence. Immerse yourself in the history of this great civilization, and be captivated by the stories that these ancient walls whisper.

Nigeria: A Melting Pot of Flavors

No trip to Nigeria is complete without indulging in its mouthwatering cuisine. Nigerian food is a delightful fusion of flavors, blending local ingredients with influences from various cultures.

One of Nigeria's most loved dishes is Jollof rice – a fragrant and flavorsome rice dish cooked in a tomato-based sauce, accompanied by a range of meats, vegetables, and spices. The debate over who makes the best Jollof rice – Nigerians or their Ghanaian neighbors – is a hot topic among food enthusiasts.

Further tantalize your taste buds with suya, a popular street food consisting of skewered and grilled meat seasoned with a spicy mix of ground peanuts and spices. The smoky aroma and the explosion of flavors will leave you craving for more.

End your culinary journey with a taste of Nigeria's delicious traditional desserts. Try puff puff, a sweet and fluffy fried dough ball, or indulge in the rich and creamy delight of coconut candy. Each bite will transport you to a realm of pure bliss.

Britain came with Religion, Government and War. With Religion they were able to penetrate the minds of the Africans and had them caged. They made the Africans vulnerable as to let the foreign Government they came with to take root, and where there are still skirmishes, war was used to put them in line. Unfortunately, this has been the method Britain have been using to hold their colonies in Africa down till this very day.

The Fulani made their first entry into Nigeria in 1804. It was a young Islamic scholar named Uthman Dan Fodio that led the Fulani uprising. He first came as a Teacher, got followers, among whom were Hausa people. When his influence grew higher, he accused Hausa Leaders of corruption, declared Jihad on them and with the help of poor Hausa peasants, he was able to defeat Hausa kings and handed over Hausa land to his Fulani brothers from the Sahel. What started as a religious war, finally became a political takeover of the Hausa land by the Fulani.

The British, having studied the Fulani very well formed a slave master alliance with the Fulani. With the other components of Nigeria as a conquered people. The Fulani have no other interest other than to grow Fulani empire, by sacking and taking over villages. They have no interest in development and collective growth. Britain needs such people as to continue taking the resources in the South. As far as the people caged in Nigeria remains poor, battered and divided,
