With the Great War raging, can they keep Britain going?

1915. On Beth Healey's eighteenth birthday, she hopes that she will be able to forget the ghastly war and celebrate. But that evening, her twin brother Ned announces that he has signed up to fight.

No longer able to stand working in her parents' village shop while others are doing their bit, Beth applies to join the Army Post Office's new Home Depot on the Regent's Park, and is astounded to be accepted. She will be responsible for making sure that letters and parcels get through to the troops on the front line.

Beth is thrilled to be a crucial part of the war effort and soon makes friends with fellow post girls Milly and Nora, and meets the handsome James. But just as she begins to feel that her life has finally begun, everything starts falling apart, with devastating consequences for Beth and perhaps even the outcome of the war itself. Can Beth and her new friends keep it all together and find happiness at last?

PRECLASSICAL CONFLICT OF LAW

To appreciate present-day private international law and its challenges, we should consider the history and the field. This book offers an original approach to the study of laws and legal history that exposes doctrinal lawyers, text, and legal historians to the intricacies of legal doctrine. It is based on an in-depth examination of Medieval or conflict of laws, focusing on the classic texts of Bartolus. Combining theoretical insights, textual analysis, and history, the author presents the preclassical conflict of laws doctrines and policies, theory and practice, context and evolution. The book challenges preconceptions and serves as a contribution which illustrates the relevance of history in contemporary international law, while aspiring to make private international law more accessible.

Dr. E. HATZIMICHAIL is Associate Professor of Private Law, and Legal History at the University of Cyprus. His dissertation received the Addison-Brown commencement award at the University of Cyprus Law School.
