In the second narrative in the SILVER FOX trilogy true crime rocket scientist Nick van der Leek analyzes the Chris Watts case in a brand new way – through the prism of marriage.

“We want to see the marriage while standing in his shoes, and then step into Shan’ann heels, and feel out the view from there. We don’t want glimpses through selfies – we want a longer, slower pan through their marriage, so that we can feel our way to something we haven’t seen before. I call it weddedness. How wedded were each of these people, and how did that drive the wheels towards inevitable annihilation?”

SILVER FOX WEDDED HUSBAND WEDDED WIFE also integrates the latest news, analysis and dramatizations into the most authentic and up-to-date account of the Watts case available anywhere.
